Google Data Center

Located at Jurong, Google's data centre is one of the only two Google facilities in Asia. It is the first multi-storey data facility while other centres in Taiwan, the US, Europe and South America are located on sprawling sites.

The facility is crucial in helping Google manage traffic. The search giant gets more than 100 billion queries a month. Its search engine looks up information from 60 trillion Web addresses, up from one trillion in 2008.
